TAIWAN SUGAR PRODUCTION EXPECTS TO TOP GOAL

Taiwan sugar production for 1949 is expected to exceed 500,000 tons. This is 100,000 tons over the goal set for this year. Production figures for some of the factories are as follows: Kobi Factory, 26,000 tons; Keiko Factory, 20,000 tons. The Keishu, Santo, and Hokko factories have each produced 18,000 tons; and 16 other factories, such as the Tairin and Kyokoto factories have produced over 10,000 tons each. In addition, these factories have produced 120,000 tons of specially refined sugar. The sugar-processing season is not yet over in Taiwan, and it is expected that the factories will produce an additional 100,000 tons before the season is over.
